time observed as in his sanity, both at the Psychopathic Hospital in Boston and Bridgewater State Hospital, but was sent back to the jail.

All through the years a "defense committee" has worked steadily in behalf of the two men, solicited radicals, raising funds for them and engaging counsel.

Even though the last hope was removed by the action of the Supreme Court, it is believed that William G. Thompson, general counsel, will try to have the case brought before the U. S. Supreme Court on a writ of error.

The crime of which Sacco and Vanzetti were convicted was the murder on April 15, 1920, of a paymaster and the special guard with him, in connection with the robbery of a $15,000 payroll.

The men carried a payroll of $15,000, which the slayers asked. The latter then jumped into an automobile and escaped after shooting at bystanders.

Four days later an abandoned automobile was found in the woods of Bridgewater, which was believed to have been the car used for the slaying. A man named Boda lived within a mile of the place where the car was found, and the police set a trap for him.

TRAPPED BY POLICE.
On May 5, Sacco, a shoe factory worker from Hingham, and Vanzetti, a Plymouth shoemaker, were taken to a garage where his car was later captured. The two new famous prisoners were placed in Bridgewater, but Boda escaped.

The trial began in Dedham May 21, 1921, and because of talk of radical demonstrations in behalf of the two defendants, extraordinary precautions were taken by the authorities. After a long delay and was dragged through June and part of July with the case being presided. It was marked by frequent clashes between the defense and the prosecution.

The district attorney of Norfolk County, Harold P. Williams, prosecuted for the government, and Frederick G. Kaituma, former district attorney, was his specially appointed assistant.

Fred H. Moore, who had appeared for radicals in many parts of the country, was chief of defense counsel. With him were associated Jeremiah J. McCarthy, Judge Thomas F. McManis and T. J. Callahan.

ABUSED WORLD INTEREST.
The trial aroused tremendous interest among radicals all over the world, and public meetings for and in this country and Europe to raise money for the two defendants.

This money was used in staging a series of fights to obtain new trials for Sacco and Vanzetti after they were found guilty of the murder. The two men were never sentenced to another hearing to Bridgewater, alleged to have taken place on December 24, 1921, and was sentenced to 15 years in State Prison. He is now serving that sentence.

Arguments for new trials consumed years, apparently endless affidavits being entered by counsel for the defense.

In the meantime Sacco, who had been sent back to the Dedham Jail, went on a hunger strike, which he broke only when transferred to the Psychopathic Hospital for observation. He was sent from there to the State Farm, Bridgewater, but authorities reported he was sane, and he was taken back to Dedham Jail.

Then Vanzetti, who was confined in State Prison, was thought to be insane and was taken to the State Farm, but after a short time was returned to Charlestown as sane.

Finally, on January 13 of this year William G. Thompson and Dudley F. Ransom, new counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti, appeared before the full bench of the Supreme Court and began their argument, which resulted in today's ruling.

either with the robbery of a $15,000 payroll.

The two men were on their way from the office of Slater & Merrill, shoe manufacturers in South Braintree, to the firm's factory a short distance away.

Mrs. Glendower Evans, wealthy Brookline woman who has been an outstanding figure among the group of intellectuals who have given much of their time and money in the fight to prove Sacco and Vanzetti innocent, was astounded when informed by the Boston Evening American of the decision of the Supreme Court refusing the convicted men a new trial.

She said: "I am extremely, I cannot understand it. I can't say now what further steps will be taken until I talk with Attorney William G. Thompson. He argued the motion for a new trial."

asked for a statement on the Supreme Court's decision, said: "I do not care to comment until I have given the decision very careful consideration. It contains 83 pages and I have read it hastily. I may have a statement later."

It was said Mr. Thompson might seek to take the case before the U. S. Supreme Court on a writ of error based on the 14th amendment to the Constitution.

MAN'S EYELASH SHOT OFF
IN GANG WAR OVER GIRL
Anthony Garuffi, fifty-two, proprietor of a Dover street, poolroom, was arraigned in municipal court today charged with assault and battery with intent to kill James Donahue of No. 205 Broadway.

Donahue said on May 6, Garuffi ordered him away from the poolroom, and when he did not move far enough, shot away one of his eyelashes.

Garuffi on the other hand claimed there was a gang fight over a girl, and one of the gang fired the shot which trimmed Donahue's eyelash, notwithstanding Judge Paramount found probable cause and held Garuffi for the Grand Jury in $2,500.

Fred H. Moore, who had appeared for radicals in many parts of the country, was chief of defense counsel. With him were associated Jeremiah J. McCarthy, Judge Thomas F. McManis and T. J. Callahan.

Facts About Big British Strike Ended Today

London, May 12 (I.N.S.)—Great Britain's great industrial war ended on its ninth day. More than 5,000,000 persons joined the strike.

Troops and naval forces were used by the government.

The miners' strike will continue, according to Secretary A. J. Cook, until the matter can be brought before a conference of miners' delegates on Friday.

"The miners' leaders have never desisted from their position," he told the Associated Press.

The general strike began late Monday at midnight, being called to support the miners in their stand against reduction of pay and lengthening of working hours.

The number of men who responded to the strike call was never definitely fixed, either by the government or the strike leaders.

The Warburg police were notified and accounted for all persons by the name, including the relatives of Atty. John P. Feeney. Medical Examiner Marshall viewed the body at the North Mortuary. The woman was about 55 years old, five feet four inches in height, 150 pounds, and wore a black dress, black bolero coat, black gloves and arched colored scarf.

In the London hotels and restaurants, announcement of the strike was received with almost hysterical cheer and hand-clapping, and a moment later, when an orchestra on the radio struck up "God Save the King," thousands sprang to their feet and stood at attention.

Providence, May 12 (A.P.)—The Rhode Island Supreme Court in a decision today confirmed the conviction of Leonard W. Horton, former master in chancery, and Francis F. Dougherty, Providence attorney, of conspiracy to defraud judges in connection with the investigation into Rhode Island's "divorce mill," which revealed, according to the Supreme Court, that some 100 divorces had been obtained fraudulently in Superior Court.

Dougherty and Horton were convicted on one of thirty-three indictments on June 24, 1922. Sentence has been deferred pending appeal.

$5 FREE SPEECH COURT LESSON FOR HARVARD MAN

Robert W. Booth, claiming to be a Harvard freshman, of Chauncy street, Cambridge, learned something about rights of free speech today after spending two and a half hours in the dock in municipal court for contempt. As he reached into his pocket for the $5 he remarked: "This is a damned outrage." Hence his detention before apologizing.

New York, May 12 (I. N. R.)—With the mystery of the vanishing of Walter S. Ward, son of the banking magnate, entering its eighth day, Mrs. Beryl Curtis Ward, wife of the young millionaire, who has stood by her husband in his murder trial and numerous escapades, today actively directed search for the missing youth.

Working on the theory that the husband had been kidnapped or slain by underworld associates in the killing of Clarence Peters, for whose murder Ward was acquitted in 1923, Mrs. Ward is supplying police with important "inside" information.

Through efforts of Mrs. Ward, Gov. Harry A. Moore issued an order to New Jersey State constable to investigate the disappearance of Ward. Young Ward's automobile was found in Trenton, last Wednesday with its windshield shattered and Ward's luggage piled.

GIRLS WALK OUT THEN GO BACK

Twenty girls employed as cord stitchers and pressers at the shoe factory of Friedman Brothers in Wiltow street, Lynn, were sent back to work today by union officials, within a short time after they left the factory.

The girls walked out to compel their employers to pay back wages. Claims range from $20 to $30 in each case. When the strikers reported at headquarters of the union, officials told them the strike was unauthorized and in violation of an agreement with the manufacturers. The girls went back with the understanding the union will take up their claims with their employers.

This is the second walkout in three weeks. After the first walkout, the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, awarded the workers an increase on the basis of prices paid by other manufacturers. The girls contend they have not been paid according to the new scale.

OLD SPUDS DROP TO 79 CENTS

Declining prices of old potatoes today reached a low level in Boston, 79 cents a peck. This is the lowest retail price since prices rocketed several weeks ago. At that time they sold as high as $1.20 a peck in some parts of New England, and at a top price of $1.15 a peck in Boston chain stores.

An influx of new potatoes and the laxness of the season has broken the control of potato speculators, who a short time ago had the market in their grip.

In Chicago the market for old potatoes was semi-demoralized today, due to the sharp break in the price. The increasing volume of new potatoes from the South is given as the cause for the condition of the Chicago market.

CALL FIREMEN OUT ON STRIKE

Haverhill, May 12.—The Groveland Fire Department—all twelve men will go on strike tonight if Chief George L. Nelson has not been re-appointed.

The firemen, all volunteers, voted that the appointment of Herbert L. MacDonald as chief was "all wet" and that Nelson should be continued in his job.

Chief Nelson, who also is chief of the Groveland police, has been blowing out fires for nineteen years, but it occurred to the selectmen that he having a number of jobs might interfere with someone, even if he had weathered nineteen years with out conflict.

MAYOR VETOES 2 BUS PERMITS

Mayor Nichols vetoed two bus line permits today, one for service between the Dedham line and Cherry square, Hyde Park, and the other a Boston to Albany, N. Y., line.

In rejecting the City Council's grant of a license to the Oakdale Community Garage and Bus Line, P. A. Chamberlain, proprietor, for the Hyde Park service, the Mayor explained that Chamberlain operates a bus service at present from the Dedham Centre to the Dedham-Boston Pierce runs buses to Cherry square.

If the permit were granted, one line would be crippled, whereas with both routes extended, as the Mayor hopes will come about, both routes ought to survive on a competitive basis.

He rejected the permit of Franklin Hart for the Boston to Albany line because he found the route competitive with railroad service to the detriment of the city in the long run.

Von Stroheim Not to Direct Pola Negri

By LORELLA O. PARSONS.
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, May 12.—The artistic temperaments of Pola Negri and Eric Von Stroheim will not have an opportunity to clash in "Hotel Imperial."

Mr. Von Stroheim being one of those intensely directors who, like John Galsworthy, considers nothing of less consequence than time, has not even started on "The Wicked and the Divine" until March, his first for Famous Players. And since Pola would like to make "Hotel Imperial" some time before 1927, she will begin work in four weeks.

Eric Pommer, who is being imported from Germany to supervise La Belle Pola's pictures, arrives here the last of the week, when he will go into executive session and see what can be done for a director. I have heard it whispered that an arrangement may be made for Universal to try and borrow B. A. Dupont, who was with Ufa at the time Pola Negri was a member of the now famous German organization.

Milton Hoffman, general manager of Famous Players-Lasky, however, refuses to admit that Dupont is a consideration. However, many things are not admitted that later come true—and I have reason to believe that the Dupont arrangement may be one of them.

THIS new call to work, of course, changes all Pola's plans. She tells me, however, that her trip to Europe has only been postponed until the first week in October, when she will sail for Europe to take a look at her new chateau. Her mother, who has not been very well, will spend the summer in Paris. We were all wondering at the birthday party which Pola gave to some of her friends, why she gave to some of her friends, why she gave to some of her friends, why she gave to some of her friends.

Wonder where the film people went to recuperate before Pola's arrival.

Surgery Expert Demands Study of Spiritism

Chicago, May 12 (A.P.)—Medical research should include scientific study of the mystery of death and development of a new race in America, in the opinion of Dr. Weller Van Hook, professor of surgery at Northwestern University.

Dr. Van Hook said to the medical round table of Chicago: "I believe from personal experience at spiritual seances medical men should not leave investigation of such subjects to the laity."

"Violently and breathing of children, fostering a new race, have gigantic possibilities."

"Many people die because they don't know how to hang on to their bodies. Death can be driven off to a certain extent by will power."

ARMORED RUM AUTOS SEIZED

Island Pond, Vt., May 12 (A.P.)—Three men, a woman and three autos of an alleged rum running caravan were captured by customs patrol officers after a wild chase over northern New Hampshire roads today.

Two of the autos, which carried 14 cases of hard liquors and nine cases of ale, were armed with shot used to protect the drivers from bullets, had secret compartments for the contraband, and were equipped with smoke screens (able to blind pursuers).

Of those captured and brought here, A. V. Richardson and a Miss Chase said they came from Canada, Vt., and offered said they were in a big rum run.

The driver of one of the armored cars was Augustus F. Lawrence of Greenfield, Mass., and of the other Clarence B. Kendall of Holyoke, Mass.

All were held for prosecution.

PENSION BILL MOVE TRAPS SPEAKER

Speaker John C. Hull of the House of Representatives and certain members of the House rules committee have been trapped by their own inconsistency.

After holding up the Casey-Thomson-Sherman Sweating Act, which has been pending for a month with the aim that it was filed too late for consideration at this session, the rules committee voted to accept an amendment to the bill by Representative Thomas H. Burton of Vermont for relief of the families of the two Forest rangers killed by Caroline La Pierre.

The rules committee took this action within a few hours of the filing of the House measure on Tuesday.

REP. GLORIA E. SPEAR

Prompt action was taken because Speaker Hull recommended introduction of the special pension bill when Representative Spear appeared before the rules committee last week and supported the Casey-Thomson bill which would give money to the widows and children of every policeman and fireman killed in the line of duty.

The same unexpected reason Speaker Hull has shown a personal aversion toward the Casey-Thomson bill which has the endorsement of every police and fire department in the State and the rank and file of Congress. Carriers of the House of Representatives show strong sentiment for general rather than special pension legislation. Consensus of opinion is that the Casey-Thomson bill would not get a vote in the House and that where Speaker Hull doesn't propose to let it go, this is the end of it.

CARS CAN'T
DEATHS IN N. Y.

By JOHN J. McNEVIN, Automobile Editor

STANDARD GAS
TESTS IN JUNE

Although 200,000 additional cars were registered and 200,000 new drivers licensed in New York State during the past year, there were 134 less deaths from motor accidents than during the preceding year.

This fact was brought out by Charles A. Hardesty, commissioner of motor vehicles. In a letter to Walter P. Chrysler, president of the Chrysler Corporation, who is compiling data on automobile accidents, Commissioner Hardesty in his letter explained how the divisions of the bureau of motor vehicles unite in their efforts to cut down accidents and fatalities. The letter is as follows:

"The inspection division of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles patrols the highways, and thereby checks the speeding, reckless driver. The safety division is composed of the following units: Accident section; complaint section; suspension and revocation section; and statistical section.

All of these units in making the highways safe. For example: The accident section examines all accident reports in which an injury or death has resulted, to determine which operator is at fault. This examination results in the suspension or revocation of the operator's license.

"The complaint section receives communications from the public who complain of reckless drivers or operators who have violated the law. These reports are investigated and the nature of the violations noted on the operator's license, and are listed alphabetically, and contain a list of all violations, accidents, court convictions, or complaints concerning the operator.

"The statistical section examines and tabulates the acts and circumstances surrounding accidents. We have found that this information is most useful in carrying out our campaign of education, by pointing out to both the motorist and the motorist how and when accidents are occurring, so that they may be eliminated in the future.

"An additional safety feature adopted by this bureau has been to exercise great care in the re-issuance of licenses. For example, if a license has been suspended for a mandatory period of months, and there is a discretionary period of six months, we will not re-issue a license until we have examined the applicant very carefully before passing it. This has made the motorist realize that the bureau is carefully watching the acts of the operator. There is no doubt that this is reducing accidents. I do believe, however, that the combination of the various agencies which we are instituting is having a 'wholesome effect upon the public'.

OLDSMOBILE MANAGER
THRILLS OREGON CROWD

Edward B. Cohen, manager of the Oldsmobile Company of Oregon, performed a real thriller for a crowd of spectators when he drove an Oldsmobile sedan up the sharp incline of one of the raised trestle spans on the New Willamette River at Portland, Ore. By performing this feat, Cohen won the distinction of being the first motorist to drive up the new bridge.

The car mounted the precipitous ramp to a stop at a height of 100 feet from the edge, which hung 100 feet above the river.

The letter is as follows:

"The inspection division of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles patrols the highways, and thereby checks the speeding, reckless driver. The safety division is composed of the following units: Accident section; complaint section; suspension and revocation section; and statistical section.

All of these units in making the highways safe. For example: The accident section examines all accident reports in which an injury or death has resulted, to determine which operator is at fault. This examination results in the suspension or revocation of the operator's license.

"The complaint section receives communications from the public who complain of reckless drivers or operators who have violated the law. These reports are investigated and the nature of the violations noted on the operator's license, and are listed alphabetically, and contain a list of all violations, accidents, court convictions, or complaints concerning the operator.

"The statistical section examines and tabulates the acts and circumstances surrounding accidents. We have found that this information is most useful in carrying out our campaign of education, by pointing out to both the motorist and the motorist how and when accidents are occurring, so that they may be eliminated in the future.

"An additional safety feature adopted by this bureau has been to exercise great care in the re-issuance of licenses. For example, if a license has been suspended for a mandatory period of months, and there is a discretionary period of six months, we will not re-issue a license until we have examined the applicant very carefully before passing it. This has made the motorist realize that the bureau is carefully watching the acts of the operator. There is no doubt that this is reducing accidents. I do believe, however, that the combination of the various agencies which we are instituting is having a 'wholesome effect upon the public'.

OLDSMOBILE MANAGER
THRILLS OREGON CROWD

Edward B. Cohen, manager of the Oldsmobile Company of Oregon, performed a real thriller for a crowd of spectators when he drove an Oldsmobile sedan up the sharp incline of one of the raised trestle spans on the New Willamette River at Portland, Ore. By performing this feat, Cohen won the distinction of being the first motorist to drive up the new bridge.

The car mounted the precipitous ramp to a stop at a height of 100 feet from the edge, which hung 100 feet above the river.

WISH COST LIFE OF WOMAN

Providence, May 12.—On her 31st birthday anniversary Mrs. Rose Stark of No. 121 North Main street is dead today, a victim of a taxicab accident.

Carl Drexler, 37, of No. 233 Broadway, the taxi driver, whose machine overturned on the Putnam place, three miles west of Chepachet, in being held by the police. He escaped with minor injuries.

Livelihood, who accompanied Mrs. Stark to this city, said another machine forced him to the side of the road, and his car overturned.

Police say Mrs. Stark might have lived but for her insistence on being taken to the Rhode Island Hospital in this city. The woman was taken in an ambulance to the home of Dr. John A. Russell, who administered first aid, and ordered the woman to Day Kimball Hospital, but she refused to go.

The family came from Canada only a few weeks ago, according to Mrs. Rowland, and Rowland was attempting to find work.

According to the police, the landlady, Elizabeth Vera, reported that Rowland was last seen on May 10, 1924, at 100, near the intersection of the street and a gray suit and cap when last seen.

HOW TO TREAT
MOTOMETER

Don't stick your motometer into boiling water to collect the fluid in the indicating tube.

This is the warning which the

Moto-Meter Company, Inc., gives in its instructions for the proper use of the instrument, when the

The fluid is separated due to the fact that the instrument is left the instrument is put in an upright position until it is restored to perfect working order.

This is accomplished by holding the motometer in an upright position the instrument on the spare tire of the car until the fluid is gathered. Cars should be taken not

THE POWER OF A HUNDRED INDUSTRIES

The power demands of industry are unceasing. Every second of every day power is needed in some line to carry on the world's work.

In hundreds of industries Continental motors are furnishing dependable power for a countless number of diversified uses. They are serving in an unusual way the power needs for industrial development. Among these Continental Motors are used for mining, lumbering, road and bridge building, steel mills, railroads, agriculture and marine.

Back of each industrial success are three outstanding factors—men, money and methods. The ability of the workmen must be fused with ample resources and proper methods. Continental has coordinated these three essentials to an unusual degree and the result is reflected in its product.

A manufacturing record showing a factory output of more than 2,750,000 motors for automotive and industrial power needs has placed Continental at the top as a manufacturer of motors. It has resulted in a position of supremacy, which 26 years of continued experience and an outstanding quality product have made possible.

Those resources which embody the highest skilled man power, ideal machinery equipment and high skill in precision processes give Continental advantages which have made it an outstanding success in the motor manufacturing field. Today the proven performance of all Continental motors has resulted in a position where the Red Seal Mark is the synonym of experience and quality in motor manufacture and the user's guarantee of dependable, economical service.

SCOUTS AID TO WORLD PEACE, SAYS POWELL

New York, May 11 (A.P.)—The movement was pictured today as a more effective agency for promoting world peace than any world court or League of Nations and as a great crime deterrent, by its founder, Sir Robert Baden-Powell. Sir Robert is in this country to confer with American leaders of the Boy and Girl Scout organizations. Lady Baden-Powell, head of the British Girl Guides, is attending the international meeting of the leaders of the Girl Scout organization, at Brookline today.

"Juvenile crime," Sir Robert said, "reaches its peak when boys are twelve years old. We try to get hold of them when they are eight and teach them the value of self-discipline with very satisfactory results."

"You cannot bring boys from various nations together, as the Scout movement does, without engendering a sense of racial trust and confidence. A splendid example of the influence the Scout movement has in the prevention of war was furnished by 12,000 Boy Scouts of British India, who marched between the hostile bands of two rival native chieftains and brought the conflict to a close. The Girl Scouts will, of course, have even a greater influence in promoting world peace, since they are the future mothers of the race."

Sir Robert will leave for England on the Atlantic Saturday. He is expected to stay in this country at the invitation of the late James J. Sullivan, boxer, and leader of the Boy Scouts here.

Training Camps Win in Hub Girl's Poll

The report of a Boston girl who polled fourteen young acquaintances on the question, and the enrollment among other supporters of Louise Clark, acclaimed by a famous artist as the "most beautiful girl in America," are high spots in today's history of the progress being made by the idea of Summer training camps for girls.

Miss Frances Hyams, eighteen-year-old business girl, of No. 208 Warren street, Allston, is the girl who took the straw vote. A recent high school graduate, Miss Hyams is employed in one of the leading stores. She tells the story of her poll in the following letter to the editor of the Boston Evening American.

"Having been much impressed with the idea brought to the attention of President Coolidge by Miss Helen Maloney of Brookline, I thought it might be helpful to see how it appealed to other girls."

"I put the question to fourteen of my associates, with this result: 'Did not read or hear of it, 2; quite indifferent, 2; did not understand it, 2; enthusiastic, 8 in favor of it.' The last figure properly should be 4, but I add my own vote to make the seven."

"One of the girls who did not understand the proposition thought it was intended to curb the girls in

IMPERSONATOR WAS OFFERED $25 FOR JOB

The unheralded appearance at Roxbury Court today of District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien, accompanied by Special Officer George H. McCarthy and private detectives, resulted in the arraignment of James O'Connell of Cliff street, Roxbury, charged with "disguising himself with intent to obstruct justice."

O'Connell pleaded guilty and at O'Brien's request, was held by Judge Ahearn in $2,500 and the papers in the case were ordered impounded.

O'Connell, in response to questions by O'Brien, said he had appeared in the same court last month and entered a plea of guilty to keeping and exposing liquor.

He admitted he used the name of Francis Carroll, and that his action was taken at the request of a lawyer who offered him $25 for the job.

The district attorney informed the court the case arose from a raid made in Columbus avenue on April 13. Charles Russ, Martin Calvey and Augustus Alvey were before the court on April 13, according to O'Brien, and were charged with keeping and exposing liquor for sale.

The complaint, he said, was signed and sworn to by Michael J. Hartnett of Division 15.

On April 22, the district attorney said, O'Connell, under the name of Carroll, also appeared in connection with the same raid and pleaded guilty to keeping and exposing liquor for sale.

These cases were continued to May 14, the district attorney said.

Neither had spoken since the wedding ceremony.

And soon it would be Summer again.

Outside could be heard the steady "Boom! Boom! Boom!" of the sort—was it the call of the gun of the game, or the rattles of the cannon of Richmond?

And yet... perhaps... it might be some half-forgotten friend knocking at the back door. Or a real estate boom.

"I wonder," thought Evelyn, "what was more than a child. Emerson was munching a Spanish and liver oil cake and the crunching sound made her shudder.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

ABOUT the only social function at which a man is absolutely indispensable these halcyon days is a wedding.

Adam was the first man to discover the short cut to fame. He didn't even try to do anything good or noble; he merely discovered the short cut to fame and then he removed his waistcoat—and a few of his sentimental remarks.

Few men can remember just what it was they said that gave a woman the authority to go ahead and marry them.

At sixteen, every girl has a secret conviction that she was "just made for love." Later she discovers that she was made for stenography, book-keeping, manufacturing—or darning socks and washing dishes.

An "understanding" is a tentative engagement, in which the man undertakes that the girl will marry him if he ever decides to ask her—and the girl undertakes absolutely nothing.

The average husband, like a clock, has to be wound up twice a week in order to be made to go the way a woman wants him to go.

The saddest sight on earth is that of the boy who used to be "the life of the party" and the village heart-breaker, when you meet him a few years later, placidly pushing a perambulator.

"The female of the species" may have her halcyon. Still, when a hen-cadillac also has accomplished something; but a rooster gets up and runs the world, just to let it know he's awake and feeding good.
